Admiration Oil

To make an oil that will help attract the attention of others, mix together twenty drops of synthetic musk, two drops of jasmine, and one drop of ylang ylang in a small bottle and leave where the full moonlight can strike it for three nights. Be sure to bring it inside before the Sun can find it.

Meanwhile, leave a rose petal, a small piece of crystal quartz, and 1/8teaspoon of powdered cinnamon in a place where the Sun can see them, making sure to move them before moonlight can strike them. On the fourth day, mix together the two sets of ingredients and leave in a dark place. Wear when you wish to draw love and admiration to yourself. It will also enable your employers to see what they love about your work for them.

Altar Oil

4 ml Frankincense
2 ml Myrrh
1 ml Cedar

Anoint the altar with this oil at regular intervals, calling your Deity (Deities) to watch over it. Mix with 4 oz base oil. Recipe is for a year of 13 Full moon phases, keep the blessing oil in tightly capped dark glass bottle.

Athena Oil

The olive is sacred to Athena, so use pure olive oil as an anointing oil in particular, rub between the palms of your hands and anoint your feet, forehead and lips.

1 oz (30gm) cedar wood chips
1/2 oz (15gm) camphor
7 drops musk oil
Female sweat (as much as possible)
6 olives unstuffed and preferably black

Blend the first four ingredients well, at the full moon, and add the olives. Put in a jar and leave for one month to mature. Then remove the olives (Which will have imparted their essence to the rest) and throw them away.

Stuffed olives, both black and green, are an obvious food for a ritual of Athena, also stuffed vine leaves, a very Athenian dish. If possible, of course, the wine should be Greek - especially retsina, though that is an acquired taste.

1 drop Orange
1 drop Lemon

Mix with 4 oz of carrier oil. Use for general ritual anointing purposes. Recipe is for 12 or more uses.

Take a glazed pan half full of grease or olive oil. Put in sweet mint leaves bruised (or whatever you like).

Place pan in hot water bath. Stir occasionally. After four or five hours pour into linen bag and squeeze grease through into pot again and fill with fresh leaves. Some people even use coffee filters or paper towels in a pasta strainer to filter. Repeat until grease is strongly scented.

Do same with marjoram, thyme and pounded dried patchouli leaves. When strongly scented, mix all the greases together and keep in a well sealed jar.

Anointing Oil for Candles

1 cup violets
1 cup water
1 cup olive oil
1 tbsp clove oil
2 teaspoons powdered cinnamon
1 tablespoon powdered myrrh
1/4 cup wild fennel seeds

Gather rose petals and violets at sunrise. Place them in a clean ceramic crock. Cover with water (fresh rain water, preferably) and let crock sit in a sunny location for three days until an oily film (the essential oil of the flowers) is seen floating on top of the water.

Remove oil from water by carefully absorbing it into a small cotton ball.

Squeeze out oil into a clean, long-necked glass bottle. Add olive and clove oils, and swirl gently in a clockwise direction to slowly agitate oils. Next, add cinnamon, myrrh, and fennel seeds.

Flying Oil to Assist in Astral Journeys (read caution below)

1 cup pure beeswax
2/3 cup of jojoba oil mixed with 1/4 cup of wheat germ oil
9 drops of the pure essential oil of juniper berry
9 drops of the pure essential oil of bog myrtle
9 drops of the pure essential oil of sandalwood
9 drops of the pure essential oil of yarrow
9mL total of a combination of the pure essential oils of chamomile, rose otto, jasmine
3 grams of poppy petals do not crush or they won’t strain
3 grams of hops do not crush or they won't strain
3 grams of wormwood do not crush or they won't strain
3 grams of dittany of Crete do not crush or they won't strain
3 grams of passionflower do not crush or they won’t strain
3 grams of skullcap do not crush or they won’t strain
3 grams of lavender do not crush or they won’t strain

In a glass double boiler (a pot used in making candles to melt the beeswax at a lower temperature and prevent wax fires) - do not use metal, melt the beeswax gently using as low a heat as possible. Once the beeswax has melted, mix in half of the jojoba/wheat germ oil combination until it is smooth.

Once the mix is smooth (you have just made the base) then add your herbs to this mixture.

Once added, keep at as low a temperature as possible, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon putting your magical intention into the mixture so as to charge it (or a very clean stick which you sanded and created just for this purpose. Doing this increases the magical intent of the mixture and so helps give it a boost).

After 33 min, ensure that the beeswax is quite liquid and use a mesh strainer you don't intend to use again to strain out the herbs from the mixture of beeswax and jojoba oil and place the mix back into the glass double boiler. Don't worry if you still have some herb in it however the herb will decay and so this shortens the life of your mix. By this time, if you have kept your mixture at a constant low temperature, you should notice that it has a slightly different consistency from cooling.

Now combine the remaining jojoba oil and the wheat germ oil with the mixture the flower based essential oils (jasmine, rose, etc) in a separate container. Before the beeswax and jojoba oil mix begins to harden and without adding more heat, add first the pure essential oils (bog myrtle, juniper berry, etc) then the essential oils and base oils mix.

This needs to be done when the mixture is as cool as possible but still fluid as essential oils are volatile and lose potency when heated to too high a temperature.

Now that you have finished you can pour your mix into glass, heatproof jars (as it will still be warm) and let it cool. Cap only after it has cooled and store in a cool, dark place. I suggest storing it in the fridge with the jar tightly capped to avoid moisture getting in. Use within a month --- this mixture is not suitable for long term storage but can last under perfect conditions for 2 - 3 months.

This ointment is potent. Use it carefully and treat it with respect as you should all herbs and essential oils. Just because they are herbs, doesn't mean they are safe. To use, apply first a small amount to the inside of your elbow to check for reactions. Then if it is safe, apply a small amount in a thin coating to the inside of your wrist and a small amount to your temples.

For faster absorption, spread a thin coating on the soles of your feet. While books which talk about flying ointments suggest smearing it all over your body, I do not recommend this approach.

Keep this mix away from your eyes nose, mouth and other sensitive areas of your body. Contrary to what you may have read on the web, this should not be placed in the genital area of the body. Do not ingest this mixture as this mixture contains oils with contraindications.

I suggest that you avoid using this mix if you: are pregnant, have high blood pressure, have a history of mental illness, or if you are suffering from prolonged insomnia.

Alternate base combinations - these vary in room temperature state from quite solid to quite liquid.

You can vary the firmness of the mixture you need by altering the amount of beeswax or oil used - more beeswax for a firmer mix, more oil or a softer mix.

Recipes for bases are guidelines only and after adding herbs or oils, you may feel the need to adjust the firmness. I suggest placing a teaspoon of the mix in the freezer to check for firmness before adding more wax or oil. There is no need for tincture of benzoin as is so popular with some recipes as this tincture is used for mixtures containing a shortening or fatty base where the fat is solid at room temperature.

This oil can be worn by any couple regardless of their marital status. It is one of the few magical oils which includes a dried herb mixed in with the essences. This is often given to Witch couple on the evening of their Handfasting.

The Formulae:

Gardenia (for peace & harmony)
Musk (for Passion & Courage)
Jasmine (for continuing love)
Rose (for protection against adversity)

Blend together (using an eyedropper) a drop at a time until the scent seems perfect. Make two ounces or so. Then add one pinch dried Yarrow.

Yarrow is used in love and marriage spells since it has the power to keep couples together for seven years.

Seven is the number of Venus, the Planet of Love.

When finished, pour into twin crystal jars. One of these is given to each pair in the married couple.

On a Friday evening when the Moon is waxing gather a little orris root, an earthen bowl and a quantity of pure olive oil. If you are a woman also have a vial of jasmine oil; patchouli will do for. Lay a pink cloth on the altar. Light pink candles. Pour the orris root into the earthen bowl, then add about half a cup of olive oil. Stir with the forefinger of your strong hand seven times clockwise. Now add the essential oil, no less than three drops, no more than seven. Place the bowl on the altar. Gaze into it, infusing the oil with your desire for love.

Enchant it by saying:

Love, love, love, love, love, love, love.

Simple and to the point, right? You might want to substitute a favorite love poem or sonnet. Pour the oil into a jar and cork it tightly. Leave in a dark place, surrounded by the pink altar cloth, for 7 days. Upon the next Friday night uncork the bottle, strain and then store in the same bottle until needed. Love oil should only be worn by its creator.
